Historical Plan

The canal remains a key feature, although connections to it are poorer today.

The former School House was at the heart of the original community in Court Street.

Old Town/Court Street in 1868

The historical street edge, like the remainder of the original community has been removed. The only legacy of this period is the Former School House, which was the focus for the community.

Similar view looking down Court Street taken in 1946. The traditional terraced street is still evident at this time.
