

Local Non-designated Heritage Assets - Policy KP14

This policy identifies those buildings and structures in the town that have local historic and/or architectural value, but have not yet warranted formal national listing status. Their locations are identified on Policies Map 5.4 along with their OS grid reference.

1 Crackley Cottages, Coventry Road – A series of three terraced blocks, there are thirteen cottages in all, situated on the Coventry Road, opposite Laneham Place. They look like Victorian or Edwardian railway cottages, but were built for farm workers, hence their local nickname "Spud Row".

2 The Spring, Upper Spring Lane – The entrance to The Spring Estate, is in Upper Spring Lane, opposite Parliament Piece. This Victorian house, brick with a tiled roof, is located down a 477m driveway, was built-in 1870 for Alexander Carter whose father had made his money in the Coventry textile industry. Adjacent is a stable block and an extensive walled garden some 65m by 45m. In the 20th century, it was the home of Jack Martin of Smirnoff vodka and Jack Daniels bourbon fame. His sister Helen Martin, who also lived at The Spring made large bequests to the University of Warwick and donated Parliament Piece to the Open Spaces Society. The Spring is an example of a 19th-century industrialist's residence. It has fine landscaped gardens noted for their azaleas and rhododendrons.

3 Timber structure Bus Shelter, Crackley Ref WDC K6 – Situated on the Coventry Road, opposite Princes Drive. Small Wooden structure approximately 1950's with hipped shingle roof.

4 Crackley Hall School main building – Formally St Joseph's Convent school. A Victorian three storey building shown on the 1886 OS maps. Brick built with stone window surrounds and mullions, some stone and brick detailing. – Accessed from gates at the end of Littleton Close off Coventry Road. Once the home of John Davenport Siddeley, of Armstrong-Siddeley. In 1937 he purchased Kenilworth Castle and in the same year was raised to the peerage as Baron Kenilworth, of Kenilworth in the County of Warwick.

5 Spring Cottage in Upper Spring Lane – Situated opposite Love Lane. Stone-built cottage from © 1600 showing original end roof truss. Has a plain tiled roof with decorative ridge tiles, a decorative brick band at 1st-floor level. Arched lintels over three-panel casements set to each side of a central entrance with storm porch, solid brick external walling comprising three stretchers and header bonding.

6 Greenhouses between Fieldgate Lane and Love Lane (access from Fieldgate Lane) – Located in the SW corner of the remains of an 80m x 20m walled garden. The remains of this commercial greenhouse is some 30m long. Probably the only greenhouse left from the heyday of Kenilworth's horticultural industry in the 19th century. Kenilworth was famous for its market gardens and the quality of its tomatoes.

- 7 Timber structure bus shelter, Tainters Hill Ref WDC K5 – Adjacent to Tainters Hill, opposite Parliament Piece. Small timber structure with a hipped shingle roof,
- 8 The Water Tower, Tainters Hill, a local landmark – Originally a windmill built around 1750, sails were removed 1850 and steam driven mill until 1875, sold to the water authority and raised in height to form the town's water tower. Decommissioned in 1965 and converted to a six storey home in 1969 by local architect Edward Byron RIBA. The conversion won an award from the UK Council for European Architectural Heritage.
- 9 Water pumping station at Mill End (on Kenilworth Common on the north side of Finham opposite Woodmill Meadows) – 19th-century building, one of the few survivors from Kenilworth's industrial age
- 10 1 Dalehouse Lane – Domestic property, built as the house for the manager of the town's gas works which were on what is now The Deer Leap. A reminder that in the 19th and early 20th century this area was a centre of industry.
- 11 20 Mill End – Timber framed building. Looks as though it dates from the 17th century or earlier. A survivor of the old settlement at Mill End centred around the watermill, forge etc.
- 12 The Copper House Club, Albion Street – Located on the corner of Albion St and Park Road and built as the original Warwickshire Constabulary Headquarters in 1858. The front pieces of the two entrances were made of Bath stone, as were the front windowsills, but all other windowsills were of cheaper Kenilworth stone. The steps to the front entrance were of Yorkshire stone. The roofs were covered by 20ins by 10ins Bangor slates. The original plans and more details are reproduced in "Victorian Kenilworth and its People" by Robin Leach
- 13 St Barnabas Church, Albion Street – Located on the corner of Albion St and Park Hill. A surviving "tin chapel" still used for regular worship. The design and construction of the building are unusual for Kenilworth and are more reminiscent of Welsh chapels. Further details are on the St Nicholas and St Barnabas Church website.
- 14 Townpool Bridge, Bridge St – Adjacent to the Abbey Fields, the site of a Post Medieval bridge, which was marked on a map of 1692, and on an Ordnance Survey map of 1886. The present bridge is of red sandstone and crosses the Finham Brook at the southern end of Bridge Street.
- 15 Outbuilding, 12 Bridge Street – Shed in front garden believed to date from late Victorian/Edwardian period. Said to have been used variously as an office where people bought tickets to emigrate, pay their rates, and get their ration books. It has coloured glass in the windows. The building is in the curtilage of a listed building and in a conservation area.

- 16 Timber structure bus shelter Bridge Street Ref WDC K4 – Next to Townpool Bridge, adjacent to Abbey Fields. Small Timber structure with a gabled shingle roof.
- 17 Abbey Fields Bowling Pavilion – Situated in Abbey Fields next to the children's play area and the swimming pool. A prime example of 1920's Park architecture. The Pavilion is believed to have been erected in 1925 and originally had a thatched roof. The roof was renewed in 1965 with a plain tile covering.
- 18 Montpelier House, Abbey Hill – Located on the corner of Abbey Hill and Southbank Rd. This building was originally a private house but in its time has been used by the Ministry of Food, the Home Guard, a Fuel Control office the Ministry of Labour Civil Defence and the Women's Voluntary Service. It is now sheltered accommodation. See the website "Kenilworth in World War 2" run by Robin Leach.
- 19 Timber structure park shelter Abbey Hill Ref WDC K3 – Located opposite No 7 Beauchamp House. Timber structure with a pitched tiled hipped roof, lead ridge and hips, this park shelter is double seated with views across Abbey Fields to one side, and Abbey Hill to the other, approximately 1950's.
- 20 United Reformed Church, Abbey Hill – Directly opposite bus shelter WDC K3. Overlooking The Abbey Fields, the United Reform Church occupies two buildings. The building at the rear of the site with the interesting Gothic style windows is the original Congregational church built in 1828-9. The Schoolrooms were added in 1833. Due to an increasing congregation, a larger church was soon needed, which is the building which fronts on to Abbey Hill which was constructed in 1872-3.
- 21 The Five Gables, 90 Whitemoor Road – The old Elmdene farmhouse. Said to be a late eighteenth or early nineteenth-century building. An interesting remnant of Kenilworth's agricultural past.
- 22 Kenilworth Clock – The clock stands prominently in the middle of the road at the junction of The Square and Abbey End, and was presented to Kenilworth in 1906 by G.W. Turner as a memorial to his late wife. Mr Turner was a notable local benefactor who donated part of Abbey Fields to the people of Kenilworth. The upper part of the structure was damaged by a landmine in 1940 which destroyed much of the original Square including the Globe Hotel. The top was later repaired.
- 23 4 The Square – An interesting group of buildings. An archway next to the shop gives a view through to courtyard and "works" at the rear. An illustration of how the commercial areas of the town centre would have looked in the 19th century. The building is now the Tree House Bookshop. It was once the Rose & Crown public house. In 1872 it was the base for the farm labourers' uprising and Joseph Arch himself is known to have visited at least once. In 1873 the Kenilworth Co-operative Society was formed there. It
